Former Eldorado Girl Has New Book Plugged on TV

I HADN'T turned on the TV Morning Show in months, and I don't know why I did yesterday morning about 7:10 o'clock. But I did.

And in a few minutes somebody identified as Lu Murphy came on the scene to get her book plugged in an interview conducted by Will Rogers Junior.

Lu's changed. She was the little sister of Stanley and Jay Murphy when I used to run around with them and later roomed a year with them up at the University of Illinois. She may not be Miss Universe today but she has a lot of glamour and poise and she can write, which is more than I can say about me and Stanley and Jay.

Back in those Eldorado days she was Annalou or Anna Lou—I forget which—Murphy and I remember her although she may not remember Timotheus. Back in the early days when droves of us used to go down to the Canine Patch, out in Carnahan's Addition across from Charlie Wallace's and out in Happy Hollow, which is about as far out Pine street as you can go, I used to think that Stanley and Jay undoubtedly would make the big leagues as baseball players at any position they desired to play.

But Stanley is selling insurance at Natchez, Miss., and Jay is a law professor teaching Legal Jurisprudence at the University of Alabama which is at Tuscaloosa.

Best I can remember about Annalou (or Anna Lou) was that Newt Murphy had a Stewart-Warner radio which sometimes had championship prize fights or World Series games on it and I'd see her when I was one of many present with an ear antenna toward the big loudspeaker.

But A. L. should have been noticed because today she has a book of her own and it's a darn good book if you go for the screwball stuff like I do.

Miss Murphy, who is married to a surgeon, E. Coleman Whitaker, is the daughter of Mrs. Elsie Murphy, who now resides in Broughton, and the late Newt Murphy, who operated a garage business in Eldorado for many years. Her aunts and uncles now in Eldorado include Allen Murphy, Ted Murphy, Miss Margaret Murphy and John Murphy, our assistant county superintendent of schools, and I bet I left some of the kin out because it's been a long time since I would have had to make such a recollection before. I believe her uncle, Ralph, is in Mt. Vernon and maybe Cecil is in Pontiac or Detroit or some place. It's really been a long time.

But before me I have her brand new book called "Maiden Effort" by Lu Murphy and she uses the lower case, or small letters, to

Federal Men Seize Still, Whiskey

Federal men yesterday seized a still and 12 gallons of whiskey on the premises of Cirillo Uretig of near Muddy and charged Uretig with possession of distilled spirits which did not bear federal stamps. The still and whiskey were confiscated by the men, who were members of the federal alcoholic tax unit.

Uretig was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Harry L. McCabe in Harrisburg and was bound over for action by a federal grand jury. He was released after filling bond in the amount of $1,000.

Pate Wants to Settle Down on Family Farm and 'Stay Home'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Two turncoat Americans, on their way home from Communist China, were greeted here warmly today by the mother of another man who once renounced his native land.

Arlie Pate and Aaron Wilson, headed for their homes in Illinois and Louisiana by air from Hong Kong, refused to leave the plane which brought them here. Both are former prisoners of war who elected to try a stay under communism.

But Mrs. Portia Howe, Alden, Minn., boarded the plane and greeted them warmly, then whispered into the ear of each.

"I just want them to know there is someone out here not trying to get a story out of them," she told newsmen.

Mrs. Howe is the mother of Pfc. Richard Tenneson.

Pilot Orders Newsmen Off
Tenneson, like Pate and Wilson, once refused repatriation at the end of the Korean War, but became disenchanted with communism. He returned to this country earlier, and was awaiting Wilson at his Urania, La., home.

Newsmen and photographers boarded the plane and questioned Pate, 25, Carbondale, Ill., and Wilson, 23, but they chatted only briefly with the two former prisoners of war before being ordered off the plane by the pilot.

Pate said he would be met at Chicago later today by his sister, Mrs. C. E. Sloan, East Carondelet, Ill., and then would return to Carbondale with his father, D. H. Pate.

"Home is Home"
First United States stop on the homeward journey was at Seattle, Wash., Wednesday night. There they talked briefly with newsmen before flying on to Minneapolis and Chicago.

"Home is home and that's where I'm going to stay," Pate said.

He said if he had to do it over again he would not have decided along with 20 other American prisoners of the Korean War to go to Communist China instead of returning to the United States in the prisoner exchanges late in 1953.

Pate said he decided to return home after 'earning his brother, Ronald, had drowned in a swimming accident and that his father was ill and could not do farm work. However, he said he still would have chosen to come back even if he didn't feel his family needed him.

Pate said he and Wilson applied to return home Oct. 29 and the Chinese government "did everything to help us with our applications."

The pair was captured late in 1950. They were Communist prisoners for three years. They were given dishonorable discharges when they defected to the Communist side during the prisoner exchanges. They were the sixth and seventh of the 21 turncoats to change their minds.

Pate said the pair worked in a paper mill near Pusan and each earned 90 Chinese dollars a month. He said he heard very little about the world situation while in Red China.

Pate was asked if he and Wilson returned expecting any type of prosecution.

"I don't know," he said. "All I want to do is to settle down on the family farm."

Tanks, Hungarian Police Fire On Demonstrators

BUDAPEST (AP)—Russian tanks and Hungarian police opened fire today on several thousand anti-government demonstrators massed in front of Budapest's west railroad station. Dozens of demonstrators fell before the point-blank fire.

It was a bloody climax to a day of mounting tension which exploded at 2:30 p. m. on Lenin Boulevard. Anti-government marchers clashed with pro-government forces and attempted to wrest from them the red flags of communism they carried.

There was no immediate indication of the number of casualties in the two clashes.

Hungarian army militia supporting the biggest force of Soviet tanks and armored cars to appear in the city since the Russian onslaught of Nov. 4 arrested dozens of men and women.

The new bloodshed followed two days of demonstrations by the women of Budapest. Leaflets scattered in the streets had called for "mighty" new demonstrations and another "total" strike today against the regime of Soviet backed Premier Janos Kadar.

Anger mounted over reports that 50 members of workers councils in Budapest factories were arrested Wednesday night.

At the Danubia textile factory this morning, some 3,000 workers were ringed off by Hungarian police backed up by the latest-model Russian T54 tanks.

As the reports of these actions spread through Budapest, the city began to steam with anger.

Three Dead in E. Alton Blast

By United Press

Investigations were underway today into explosions that rocked two Olin - Mathieson Chemical Corp. properties, killing at least three men and injuring four.

Two men were killed and a third man was missing in the blast Wednesday night of a nitroglycerine laden truck in the explosives area of the company's East Alton, Ill., plant.

Two bodies were found, but the victims could not immediately be identified. The missing men were William Schoenbaum, 61, Cottage Hills, Ill., Gerald W. Dillard, 54, Dorchester, Ill., powder-line chief operator, and Floyd Wismasky, 36, of near East Alton, the truck driver.

Another explosion Wednesday night ripped a portion of the firm's Niagara Falls, N. Y., pilot plant where investigators said "experimental work of a classified nature" was performed.

Committees, Polling Places For Corn Vote

Members of the committee in charge of conducting the Dec. 11 growers' referendum on the corn program and the location of the polling places were today announced by Herman Driskell, chairman of the Saline County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

In the referendum, farmers throughout the commercial corn area will vote on whether they wish to use Soil Bank corn base acreages or acreage allotments in producing their corn crops. The outcome of the referendum also will affect the method of qualifying for price support for the 1957 and later corn crops.

As directed by the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture, the county ASC committee has designated three local farmers, and one alternate, as members of the community referendum committee to conduct the referendum. The members must reside in the community and must be eligible to vote in the referendum. Those named as members of the referendum committee in Saline county are as follows:

Eugene Reynolds, Guy Karnes, David Lewis and alternate, Charles Lockwood; F. J. Craig, Norman Nolen, Ernest Felty and alternate, Guy Turner; Troy L. Hicks, Norman Sutton, Guy Whipple and alternate, Barney Simpson; Charles K. Conwell, Sam Barton, John Ed Heathman and Homer Watson, alternate; Lowden Perkins, Raymond Oxford, Charlie Barnett and Roy DeNeal, alternate.

The following polling places will be open for voting in the referendum from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. on Dec. 11:

City hall at Eldorado for Rector, Eldorado and Cottage townships; Galatia townhouse at Galatia for Tate, Galatia and Long Branch townships; city hall at Harrisburg for Raleigh, Harrisburg and Brushy townships; city hall at Carrier Mills for Carrier Mills and Stonefort townships, and DeNeal's store at Rudement for Independence and Mountain townships.

Servicemen's Dependents Eligible Friday for Gov't Paid Medical Care

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 2 million dependents of servicemen become eligible Friday for medical care by civilian doctors and hospitals with the government paying virtually all the cost.

The broad-scale medical health plan authorized by the last Congress is designed to insure medical care to military families if military physicians and facilities are not available.

The program is expected to cost at least $80 million annually. It will be handled through contracts with private health insurance companies.

Thus far, the Defense Department has signed contracts covering medical care in 42 states, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and Alaska. Negotiations are still going on for medical care in six states: Texas, Rhode Island, Ohio, Maine, Alabama and Idaho.

Under the program, when dependents of servicemen are treated

Stratton to Ask Legislature to Abolish Post of State Auditor

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton will recommend to the next General Assembly that the post of state auditor be abolished and that of state treasurer be made appointed.

Stratton, in a news conference Wednesday night, said his recommendations will be set forth in his inaugural address at Springfield Jan. 14.

"The gravity of the Hodge affair shows the weakness in the present system," he said.

"There can be no doubt in the minds of our citizens and constantly in the minds of our legislators that the public interest will be served best by intelligent and sound changes," he said.

Stratton earlier met with State Auditor Lloyd Morey and Albert Jenner, special assistant attorney-general for the Illinois Budgetary Commission.

Morey and Jenner have compiled a list of recommendations for the budgetary commission as a result of the 2½ million dollar Hodge scandal.

Among their recommendations were a "conflict of interest" law, corrupt practices legislation on campaign spending and a permanent crime investigation commission. They also called for abolishing the auditor's office and appointment of the state treasurer by the governor.

Stratton termed the report "an excellent presentation" in "scope and content."

"It will be important not only in helping us develop a program for this state," he said, "but should also be of considerable interest in other states as well because it gets to the basis of responsibility of public officials," Stratton said.

Morey Orders State Officials to Itemize Their Travel Expenses

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—State Auditor Lloyd Morey has quietly dusted off a long-ignored law and asked elected state officials, from Gov. William G. Stratton on down, to itemize their travel expense vouchers.

It has been the "custom" for elected officials to file expense vouchers merely listing a flat sum without itemization.

Morey broke this custom and has been itemizing his own expense vouchers since he took over his office from Orville E. Hodge under an appointment by Stratton.

His request that other elected state officials follow his example was delivered along with their October travel expense checks.

Henceforth, Morey asked that the elected officers itemize their expenses as non-elective state employees do and as Morey says is required by law.

Still Being Discussed
An aide to Gov. William G. Stratton told United Press the Morey request was still "being discussed" because no one was sure elected officials actually were required by law to itemize.

Lt. Gov. John W. Chapman would not talk about the request. "I know nothing about it, I have no comment," he said.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter said he would heed Morey's request insofar as possible.

A spokesman for State Treasurer Warren E. Wright said "definitely we will" comply with the request. He said Wright's November voucher had been filed already and it was itemized.

The State Finance Act provides that "each voucher for traveling expenses shall be itemized . . . accompanied by a certificate signed by the person incurring such expense certifying that the amount is correct and just . . ."

Have Ignored Law
The law does not specifically name elective officials. Neither does it exclude them.

An aide to Morey said it "apparently has just been custom or practice for many years" to ignore the law. "Probably they (the state officials) were never asked before" to itemize the expenses," he said.

Will Be Largest Peacetime Move in History

10,000 Will Be Sped by Air, 5,000 by Ships

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The White House announced today that within a matter of days this country will begin a mass air-lift and sea-lift to bring 15,000 Hungarian refugees to America by the end of the year or shortly thereafter.

The refugees, in addition to the 6,500 now being moved by air thru the Intergovernmental Committee on European Migration, will be moved from Bremerhaven and Munich, subject to the expected approval of the West German government.

The White House said the combined air and sea lift will be the largest peacetime movement of its kind in history.

Of the 15,000 refugees, about 5,000 will be brought to this country aboard three Navy transport ships. The first vessel is scheduled to sail from Bremerhaven between Dec. 18 and Dec. 21, the second ship about a week later and the third ship a week following.

About 10,000 refugees will be sped to the United States by Air Force and Navy planes operating through the Military Air Transport Service, which also may contract with private companies for additional air-lift flights.

The White House said the air lift from Munich would begin within the next few days at the rate of 200 a day, with the number progressing by about 100 a day until it reaches about 500 a day.

"This should make possible the movement out of Austria of most of the refugees who are coming by air by about the end of the year or shortly thereafter," the White House statement said.

The bulk of the 6,500 original refugees were being admitted to this country under refugee act quotas, but the 15,000 will come in under the so-called parole provision of the immigration and nationality act.

The White House reiterated today that immediately after Congress convenes next month, President Eisenhower will ask that refugees admitted under the parole provision will be granted permanent residence in this country.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink.—Habakkuk 2:15. There are few neighborhoods free from alcoholics. Some have prayed for strength to live decent, happy lives but think their prayers have not been answered. Tell them to use the strength God has given them and He will give them more strength.

The Swaggering Nasser

BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

The United States agrees with Britain and France that the U. N. police force in Egypt should occupy the entire Suez Canal zone long enough to prod the Egyptians into serious effort at a general Middle East settlement. That agreement is a vital foundation to peace in the area.

Under no circumstances, it is felt, should the canal be turned back to President Nasser until progress toward a real settlement has been achieved.

The U. N.'s steps toward ending the Middle East fighting have been wholly praiseworthy. But the cessation of gunfire will mean little if the net effect is to reward Nasser for his callous and reckless behavior in disregard of the peace, the well-being and the moral stability of the world community.

There is something terribly twisted about a picture in which Nasser swaggers about like a victor in war, trying to set conditions under which an international police force may function and the Suez Canal may be repaired and reopened.

Actually, Nasser's forces in the Sinai desert were rolled up like a window shade by the Israelis. And British-French units assaulting the Suez line were pressing rapidly down the canal's 100-mile length when a ceasefire came.

We have to remember that in Nasser we have the man who more than any other was responsible for the present grief over Suez.

It was his country above all which raided Israeli borders until the provocations became unendurable. It was he who was most vocal about Arab intentions to destroy Israel. Egypt it was which blocked Israeli shipping from entering the Suez Canal.

It was Nasser who pointlessly seized the canal last summer, when he would have gained it legally anyway in 12 years—by then in vastly improved condition and undoubtedly productive of much higher revenues for Egypt.

And it was he who saw to it that the canal was blocked with the hulks of 50 or more vessels of all sizes. Now he is quite happy at the thought that the waterway's restoration may be managed at somebody else's expense.

This man who did so much to bring on the war and then lost all the battles up to the moment of ceasefire now seems to think he is the winner and that the U. N. police force is his private militia. Justice can perhaps best be served if the U. N. remains in command of Suez and stays at the Israeli-Egyptian frontier until Nasser understands he is not master either in the U. N. or in the Middle East.

The entire U. N. effort in that region will end as a mockery if it does no more than restore the old evils which brought about the fighting in the first place. Only an arrogant fanatic like Nasser would imagine that black marks are medals.

Frightening Similarity

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: U. S. Government Bonds Depressed to Dangerous Low; White House Advisers Concerned Over Fiscal Policies; Little Bondholders Get Stuck.

WASHINGTON. — It isn't featured in the headlines, but Eisenhower advisers are just about as much worried over domestic fiscal policy as they are about international war jitters.

U. S. government bonds have now dropped to the lowest point since the collapse of World War I Liberty Bonds in the Harding administration. Simultaneously, the government is now paying the highest interest rate since the bank holiday at the end of the Hoover administration in 1933 — 3.174 per cent.

This has had several serious economic effects:

1. A mistrust of government credit which could become dangerous.

2. Curtailment of credit to small business. The Eisenhower administration has been receiving such a deluge of complaints that the Office of Small Business of the Commerce Department, after three years of hand-sitting, is finally going out to big cities to hold regional meetings.

3. The big banks are making more money than ever, thanks to high interest rates. On the last issue of government paper at 3.174 per cent, the banks were able to borrow at the Federal Reserve for 3 per cent, then turn around and use this money to buy government paper for a profit of one-sixth of 1 per cent.

4. The little investor who bought government bonds in good faith is now stuck.

INFLATION HITS LITTLE FELLOW

Here's what happened to the small investor. He bought Series E Bonds after listening to the Treasury's appeal of patriotism, and he must keep them "locked in" for 10 years in order to get the 3 per cent interest rate. They are not negotiable. Also, they are taxable.

Meanwhile the market has dropped on some bonds and he is left holding the bag. Municipal bonds which are tax exempt are generally higher. They pay interest rates of as high as 4 1/2 per cent. At the same time, prices of food, clothing, almost everything else has gone up, while the value of some government bonds has gone down.

So the patriotic citizen who answered his country's call to help finance the war and defense spending is now twice hit: (1) by inflation, (2) by the tight money policy which has raised interest rates to about 50 per cent more than he gets from his E bonds.

The drop in some government bond values to $89, the lowest since the Harding administration, results, of course, from the sale of new government bonds at a higher interest rate. Some advisers blame this on the high discount rate of the Federal Reserve Board which they point out is independent of the Treasury.

However, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, though at first skeptical of the high discount rate, has now endorsed it as a necessary brake on inflation.

On the other hand, Dr. Arthur Burns, Eisenhower's chief economic adviser, resigned because of his opposition to the continued high discount rate. The depressed stock market, the slowing rate of plant expansion, plus lessened auto production were economic straws in the wind which worried him.

Note—Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, most faithful friend of small business, plans a full-scale probe of government fiscal policy when Congress gets back to Washington.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Sir Charles Taylor, a London hotel executive, feared the British empire had fallen apart while he was in Washington attending the recent International Hotel Convention. As Taylor was sending a cable home, a young lady clerk in a Washington telegraph office asked him in wide-eyed innocence: "England? Do you mind telling me, sir, if that is a separate country?"

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Mueller, holding a small business opportunity conference in Cleveland last week, promised plenty of business to Ohio small business in the future.

Joseph P. Adams is the only active pilot on the Civil Aeronautics Board and one of the few government officials, outside of the military services, who can fly a jet plane. Adams can also fly a helicopter. He is a former U. S. Marine Corps pilot.

Massachusetts' two senators — Saltonstall, Republican; and Kennedy, Democrat—will get more power in the next Congress, Saltonstall as chairman of the Senate Republican conference, Kennedy as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

The Republican National committee will send field representatives to build up GOP strength in districts they lost in the November election. Reed Benson, son of the secretary of Agriculture, has already been sent to Pennsylvania and New York. Young Benson made more political speeches during the campaign than any other Republican except Vice President Nixon. Other field representatives will be assigned their fence-building jobs next month.

The House Ways and Means committee will call tax boss Russell Harrington on the carpet to explain why he isn't collecting as much taxes. The congressmen will charge that decentralization of the Internal Revenue Service has caused a drop in tax collection. (Local offices don't work so hard unless goaded from Washington.)

ONE PIPE OPERATES

There is just one pipeline still carrying oil from the Arab countries to the Mediterranean. The others, originally laid to circumvent tanker transportation through the Suez canal, have been chopped off by the Arab countries through which they flow.

The one pipeline still flowing is that owned by the Arabian-American Oil Company from Saudi Arabia to Sidon on the eastern Mediterranean. It carries 320,000 barrels a day and is running to capacity.

Inside reason why it is operating when all other lines have been cut is a pledge given by Aramco that not a drop of this oil shall reach the British and French.

The Saudi Arabia government threatened to blow up the pipeline, dynamite oil facilities, and destroy oil wells in Saudi Arabia if any of this oil got to the French and British. So Aramco agreed.

Aramco is owned 30 per cent by Standard of New Jersey, 30 per cent by Standard of California, 30 per cent by the Texas Company, and 10 per cent by Socony Mobil.

The interesting thing is that two

They Probably Had No Wastebasket Handy

TULSA, Okla. — Television repairmen are, by habit, prepared for the worst when they take the back off a set, but Jamie McIntosh is still flabbergasted with one set in particular.

Inside the set (and McIntosh has an inventory to prove it) were:

Nineteen pencils, three toy drum sticks, three lollipop sticks, two slivers of bamboo, a safety pin, a hair curler seven wood screws, two pieces of wallboard, a four-inch castiron rod, an earring, insulated staple, four soda straws, two pearl beads, a button a clock gear, a lipstuck cap, two rocks, a butterbean 10 cigar butts, six matches and one chicken bone.

Schedule of Baptist Hour Over WEBQ

The following is the schedule for the Baptist Hour Association over radio station WEBQ daily from 7 to 8 a. m. with the church and minister in charge.

No merchant under the jurisdiction of Local 896 is entitled to an assistant manager. Only one store manager or owner per store and one bona fide executive.

This bona fide executive is a person who does not handle or sell the merchandise that is sold in any said store.

Dan was grateful for the coffee and pleased that Paula had gone to a little extra trouble in preparing the soup. He said as much and Paula only murmured something, hardly looking at him. Phil finally placed his empty cup on the table and leaned back.

"First," he said "about the fight. I don't know where the story started, but Blaise and I did not tangle over anything I said about Paula. She wasn't mentioned."

They didn't quite believe him, although Phil kept this out of his voice, making it dry and matter of fact.

"Maybe you'd better tell your side."

They listened, distant at first, then pulled to him by his sincerity and the shock of what he had to tell them. He mentioned Starrett's ambition and the way he looked to that stretch of HC range, and how at last he had determined to force Crane off of it, and because of this the ultimatum that he had given to Dan to either draw gun wages or quit. Dan glanced up at Paula and read the shock of disbelief in her eyes.

Dan spoke regretfully and yet with a mounting anger. He told of Starrett's new idea that the bandit gang gave him a chance to force Crane's hand. He told of the conference with Bruhn and then how he had accused Starrett out on the saloon porch.

"I wasn't drunk," he said finally. "I was mad clean down to my boots. We didn't talk of Paula or any other woman. Starrett shouldn't have told that story."

Phil looked grave and Paula studied her fingers. She looked pleased and yet she also seemed to be troubled. Phil sighed.

"Dan, do you know what you're saying?"

"The truth, Phil . . . nothing else."

"But . . . man! If this is true, then Blaise will have Hal Crane killed and maybe that rider, Claggett, too."

Dan realized that they couldn't quite believe him and yet they could not accuse him of lying, either. He was caught between and only events would prove him right or wrong. Yet, if he carried out his plan at the Wyoming Bar, he would have Jack Bruhn to verify what he had just told them. He saw the dilemma and realized that he could say no more right now. He slowly shoved back his chair.

"I'd better be getting on. Time passes."

"To Vivian's?" Phil asked. Paula stirred and Dan gave all his attention to her, though he talked to Phil.

"This morning she heard about Ava and went over there. I went with her. I'd do it for any woman with this bunch of outlaws in town." He almost told them of what he had learned but checked himself. Paula glanced up at his slight hesitation and Dan went stubbornly on.

"She found out at Ava's where the whole town stood, and she knew something had to be done." Again he looked at Paula. "She asked me to her house and she gave me a gun she had hidden. That's all there is to that."

Dan watched Paula's bowed head. She slowly looked up and searched his face and then Dan knew that he had been right. The girl loved him and he felt his heart leap. But he read a shadow of hurt in her eyes. She knew he had left something out and this was between them. He saw the slight change in her expression.

"It doesn't matter . . . but the gun does. You'd better get it before it's too late."

Dan Murdock stepped off the porch and, squaring his shoulders, walked to the Squaw Creek Road. Vivian's cottage stood not far ahead.

His jaw relaxed a bit and he strode to the porch, knocked on the door. Within a matter of minutes he would have that single, all-precious weapon . . . and then he'd make the big gamble. He heard steps approach and the knob rattled.

The door jerked open and Dan stared, eyes wide, smile frozen on his face. Tex Darrow looked at him, grinning, and yet there was a sinister little gleam in his eyes. His smile widened and he stepped back, making a generous gesture.

"Well, come right in. We've been waiting for you so the party could begin. Step in, Murdock."

Disaster had struck. Darrow waited, a smiling, dangerous man. Dan shrugged, deciding to play a careful, waiting game. He stepped inside and took off his hat.

Denver Gorce, leaning against the far wall, one hand stroking his beard, the other resting close to his holstered gun. Dan saw Vivian seated in a rocker near the stove. Her eyes sparkled and her fingers clutched the chair arm as she rocked back and forth with a tempo that revealed her inner turmoil. Dan tried to get some signal that would explain the situation. But she kept her eyes on the floor and her nostrils looked pinched.

Tex Darrow came in behind Dan and then headed toward the window. He glanced at Denver, who started smiling through his beard. Darrow's brow lifted and his grin widened. He crossed the room to the table that held the ornate lamp, and Dan saw the gun for the first time. Tex picked it up and Dan could not help a sharp, indrawn breath. Tex's dark eyes were cruel and implacable.

"Ain't this what you come for, Murdock?"

16 Clinton Troublemakers Face Federal Charges

Warrants Cite Variety of Anti- Negro Activities

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (U.P.)—U. S. marshals today arrested the last of 16 segregationists charged with interfering with integration of Clinton High School in violation of a federal court order.

Marian Nell Currier was picked up at Clinton and was to be brought here for arraignment.

Six of the accused segregationists were arraigned Wednesday night. The other 10 faced arraignment later today.

The swift roundup of segregationist troublemakers encouraged the Anderson County School Board to begin planning the reopening of the high school, which was closed Tuesday to stop a wave of violence. Officials hope to have the school's 700 students, including nine Negroes, back in class Monday.

The federal warrants cited a variety of anti-Negro activities ranging from picketing the school to intimidating, waylaying and beating nine Negroes who enrolled at the previously all-white school in September.

All 16 are charged with violating an injunction issued by U. S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor during integration riots at the school last September prohibiting anti-Negro demonstrations.

Will Reopen School

U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. ordered the crackdown on an appeal from the Anderson County School Board which closed the school two days ago to halt a new wave of violence.

The board Wednesday night announced it hoped to reopen the school Monday.

Marshals brought in the last carload of segregationists Wednesday night from Clinton, 20 miles south of here. They all wore handcuffs.

Judge Taylor told the defendants they could get a speedy trial if they desired or could "take a while to prepare a defense."

Charged With Lawlessness

U. S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford said he was prepared to prove the defendants "instigated acts of violence and created lawlessness" to overthrow the court-ordered integration of the Clinton High School.

Those being arraigned today were Clyde Cook, 35; Christ Foust, 36; J. L. Coley, 43; Thomas R. Saunders, 42; Cleo Nelson, 23; Raymond Woods, 35; John B. Long, 31; Edward H. Nelson, 22; and his wife, Zella Lou Nelson, 19.

Those arraigned Wednesday night were Alonzo Bullock, Clyde Cook, Bill Brakebill, Clifford Carter, and 16-year-old Jimmy Pierce.

They were ordered held in bail ranging from $2,500 to $12,000.

Plane Missing In Snowstorm With 4 Aboard

Four Air Force Officers Killed In Other Crashes

By United Press

Authorities searched today for four men whose plane apparently crashed in a western snowstorm. Three other plane wrecks killed four Air Force officers, and a fifth escaped with minor injuries when his craft crashed in a residential area near Ingelwood, Calif.

The missing plane, presumed down in rugged country between Boise, Idaho, and Ogden, Utah, was a twin-engine private craft carrying three executives of the Boise-Payette Lumber Co. and the pilot.

Aboard the plane were John Aram, 45, Boise, company president; Bob Hasberger, 36, Portland, Ore., who was to have assumed presidency of the firm today; A. E. Montgomery, 48, Boise, a company vice president, and I. L. Eason, Boise, the pilot.

Four Officers Killed

Jet plane crashes at Mansfield, Ohio, and Pickford, Mich., killed four Air Force officers.

Lt. Jack T. Estabrook, 25, Lakeland, Fla., and Robert E. Kuhens, 28, Uniontown, Ohio, were killed Wednesday when their T33 Air Force jet trainer ran low on fuel and crashed near Mansfield.

Killed when their F80 jet fighter crashed near Pickford were Lt. John Edward Cunningham, 24, Tulsa, Okla., and Robert Walter Garvin, Mt. Hope, W. Va.

About 100 persons searched a nearby swamp in the belief the men had bailed out, but their bodies were found late Wednesday beneath the fuselage when cranes lifted the wreckage.

House Set Afire

At Ingelwood, an Air Force jet trainer plummeted out of control when its fuel tank exploded. It rammed into a residential area, setting a house afire.

The pilot, identified as James Gleason, escaped with minor injuries.

At Ft. Williams, Ont., an air search was scheduled to resume today for three Air Force B47 crewmen missing since Friday in the crash of their $1.9 million atomic bomber.

About Town And Country

start out her names and she's dropped the o and anna. John Porter loaned me the book.

On the paper wrapper they put around the book there's a picture of her in a big hat that bends so it doesn't hide the face and underneath are words of interest. They include the fact that she was born in Eldorado and that her education came very hard. . . . She went to the University of Iowa and flunked out as a direct result of her stunning term paper on Darwin entitled "The Tail of Charley." She must have been a corker!

The words of interest further include high points in her career such as work in radio, television, as a fashion co-ordinator, as a model job which lasted just two hours at $30 an hour, as an advertising copy writer, and of her syndicated newspaper column, which led to the book.

The book published by one of the biggest publishing houses, Duell, Sloan and Pearce of New York, has flattering comment about her on the inner side of the wrapper over the front cover of the book. It is dedicated to brothers Stan and Jay, and this dedication is running so long (for me) that I am compelled to continue it tomorrow.

Who Anna Lou killed by the incident? Did she get there in time? Did the villain make his getaway? Read tomorrow's chapter.

Youth is Found Fatally Shot Near Robinson

ROBINSON, Ill. (U.P.)—John Clatfeiter, 20, died Wednesday night of a gunshot wound in the head, suffered in an apparent accident as he sat in his car with two guns.

Clatfeiter's father, Harold, said the boy was a "lover of guns."

The youth was found dead in his car in the yard of the family farm home west of West York in Clark County by two teen-age friends, Jack Webster and John Shelton.

The elder Clatfeiter said the boy had gone out of the house after supper with a .22 caliber rifle and a .22 pistol.

The youth was found with a bullet hole squarely between his eyes. He was pronounced dead at Edward Greer Hospital here, and his body was sent to Champaign for autopsy.

The Crawford and Clark County sheriffs both were investigating the death, which they termed accidental. A coroner's inquest was continued pending the investigation.

Court Orders Use Tax Collections Be Kept Separate

CHICAGO (U.P.)—A temporary injunction has been issued in Circuit Court here ordering all money collected from the Illinois use tax be kept separate from other state revenue.

The injunction was issued Wednesday night by Judge William V. Brothers to allow refunds if a Supreme Court ruling that the tax is illegal is upheld.

The high court declared the tax unconstitutional during its November session and a rehearing on the matter is pending.

The tax has been levied on items purchased outside the state by Illinois residents, chiefly cars. The state collects about $40,000 per month through the tax.

The injunction was aimed at Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, and State Revenue Director Richard J. Lyons.

Spot Checks of Trucks Dec. 11

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Illinois Commerce Commission inspectors and state police will make another series of spot checks for violation of the State Motor Carrier Act, Dec. 11, it was announced today.

The inspectors will search truck cabs to see that certified copies of truckers' authority to operate are carried with each truck, as required by the law.

A Commerce Commission spokesman said the checks will be made at Silvis, Rosecrans, Blue Island, Peoria, Decatur, Springfield, Effingham, East St. Louis and Cairo.

A minimum fine of $40 will be imposed on each truck operator found operating without the necessary papers.

UN is Angered at Hungary's Rejection of Hamarskjold Visit

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U.P.)—Cuban Ambassador Emilio Nunez Portuondo accused Hungary today of a two-fold "insult" in rejecting Secretary General Dag Hamarskjold's request to visit Budapest Dec. 16.

"First of all they turned down the date after they led the United Nations to believe they would accept it, and then they did not have the courtesy to notify the secretary-general before making it public," the Cuban delegate said.

The rejection of Hamarskjold's plans to visit Budapest for three days beginning Dec. 16 was announced by radio Budapest. It quoted the Janos Kadar regime as saying such a visit was "not suitable" at this time. No later date was suggested.

Refuses Comment

Hamarskjold refused to comment on the reported rejection until he received official word from the Budapest regime.

The secretary-general forwarded an official request for permission to go to Hungary for a first-hand investigation of the situation through Imre Horvath, foreign minister of the Budapest puppet regime. The two met Tuesday night after Horvath said his government was ready to discuss details of Hamarskjold's visit.

Horvath, a grey-haired mild-appearing man who speaks English well, appeared somewhat embarrassed Wednesday when newsmen confronted him with the Budapest report that Kadar had turned down the Hamarskjold schedule.

"I have not received a reply as yet," he said almost apologetically. He said earlier he recommended to his government acceptance of the dates.

Delegates Angered

Delegates of Western nations were frankly angered at the Budapest action.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said it was "an affront to the secretary general and to the whole civilized world, particularly after the attempt to hornswoggle us last night." He referred to Horvath's announcement of his government's readiness to talk about Hamarskjold's visit.

Three Killed in Auto Collision

LITCHFIELD, Ill. (U.P.)—Three persons were killed and two others were injured Wednesday night in a head-on automobile collision on Ill. 16 east of here.

Killed were Mrs. Goldie Coss, 55, Litchfield, her daughter Sharon, 15, and Gerald Hallaman, 16, Mount Olive.

They were passengers in a car driven by Clarence Hallaman, 22, Litchfield, which collided with another auto driven by Harvey Stokes, 18, Hillsboro. Both drivers were injured.

The Hallaman car was returning from a birthday party at Hillsboro. Sharon Coss and another Hallaman boy, Clifford who is with the Air Force in Texas, were to have been married at Christmas time.

Question Vagrant In Year-Old Slaying Of Three Boys

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (U.P.)—Police today questioned a 30-year-old vagrant in connection with the unsolved strangulation murders of three young boys near Chicago last year.

The man, Richard Fred Ebert, was picked up Wednesday. Officers said he became a suspect in the murders when he kept saying "That time I was in the woods" during routine questioning.

Detectives said Ebert told them "the three boys in the woods . . . it was terrible the way they were killed." Ebert, when asked if he killed the boys said, "I don't know," police said.

The bodies of Robert Peterson, 14, John Schuessler, 13, and his brother, Antuan Jr., 11, were found Oct. 18, 1955, in the Robinson reserve woods less than 10 miles west of Chicago.

Springer Spaniel Trials Open at Crab Orchard

MARION, Ill. (U.P.)—Thirty-six of the nation's finest English Springer Spaniel dogs began their quest today for the national title in field trials at Crab Orchard Lake National Wildlife Refuge near here.

Among the entries is Ludovian Bruce of Greenfair, owned by Joseph Quirk of Greenwich, Conn., the defending champion. He is the only double winner in the 10-year history of the national trials. The 1953 winner, Micklewood Scud, is also an entry. He is owned by Armfort Kennels of Chicago.

A traffic accident last week eliminated a dog who was the top point getter in trials this year. Garrytown Red, owned by Kenny Williams of North Hollywood, Calif., would have been a favorite.

The national championship stake will be run today, Friday and Saturday.

Twenty-two dogs are entered in the national amateur shooting dog stake which will be run off Sunday. Last year's champion, San-Dwan Sam, owned by De Lancy Nicoll Jr., of Friday Harbor, Wash., is back to defend his title.

The National English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Assn. Wednesday night elected A. M. Lewis of New York City as president. He succeeds C. K. Hunter of Chicago.

Other officers elected are: Donald Shooter, Arcadia, Calif., first vice president; George Sokup, Mukwonago, Wis., second vice president; Philip Armour Jr., Chicago, secretary; and Mrs. Roy Chapin Jr., Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., treasurer.

U. S. Protests Soviet Actions

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The United States today protested "unwarranted Soviet military action" in stationing tanks in front of the American legation in Budapest during demonstrations by Hungarians this week.

The United States also said it is "deeply concerned" by Russian military moves in Hungary.

The protest was delivered by Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy to Soviet Charge D'Afaires Sergei R. Striganov, who was summoned to the State Department shortly before noon. Striganov is the ranking Russian official here while the ambassador is attending the United Nations General Assembly session.

Eisenhower Seeks To Heal Rift With France

AUGUSTA, Ga. (U.P.)—President Eisenhower today sent a message to French Prime Minister Guy Mollet expressing "great interest" in healing the rift that developed between the United States and France over the Middle East crisis.

The verbal message was sent to the French prime minister through American Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon from the vacation White House here.

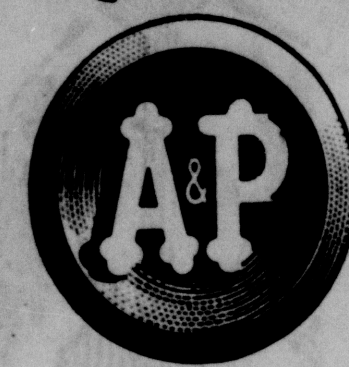

Dillon, who has been in this country for a week, conferred with Mr. Eisenhower for an hour at the Augusta National Golf Club where the chief executive is vacationing.

Disabled Children May Receive Social Security

Totally disabled children over 18 years of age whose parents are receiving social security payments or whose deceased parents were insured for social security benefits at the time of death may in many cases be eligible for social security payments themselves beginning with the month of January 1957 according to E. Bishop Hill, manager of the District Office of the Social Security Administration at Harrisburg.

To qualify for monthly payments after age eighteen, a child must be so severely disabled that it cannot work and have been disabled before reaching eighteen. Also, the child must be unmarried and, in most cases, dependency on the parent must be established.

Those who may be eligible for social security benefits as a totally disabled child over 18 years of age, or someone in the child's family should get in touch with the social security office, Mr. Hill added.

Welfare Dep't To Up Budget

SPRINGFIELD — State Welfare Director Otto L. Bettag said Tuesday his department probably will ask the Legislature for a 170 million dollar budget for the next biennium, 45 million dollars more than the current budget.

Bettag made the statement at a meeting of state welfare agencies where a long-range plan for a 300 million dollar building program at welfare institutions was outlined.

One of the groups at the meeting was the Legislative Commission to Visit Charitable Institutions. The commission reported state institutions were badly overcrowded and understaffed.

Commission Chairman Sen. William F. Hensley (R-Lawrenceville) said the group also favors increased salaries for institution employees.

Willard L. Couch said state mental institutions are 43 per cent overcrowded.

Bettag said the proposed 170 million dollar budget would mean $3.75 a day to care for each patient, compared to the present $2.96.

Army Retires Pigeons from Active Duty

BY H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
FT. MONMOUTH, N. J. (UP)—The Army pigeon is a dead duck. The Army has decided that the communications field—in peace-time, at least—is not for the birds. The electron is taking over.

That was the purport of a sweeping decision announced Tuesday night from the great Pentagon cyrie in Washington. The pigeon is being retired from active duty—grounded, so to speak.

The Washington announcement said progress in electronic communications has "virtually ended any peacetime need" for pigeons. The swift wings and stout hearts that have done combat for America in two world wars and Korea are being deactivated.

The Army Signal Corps pigeon center here—long a headquarters for training, billing, cooing, and breeding—is the last such activity in the country. It soon will be closed and some 1,000 birds of fered for sale.

Eighteen feathered heroes, living here in honored retirement in the special "Churchill loft" which is reserved for those birds that have saved American lives in combat, will be given extra consideration. The Army hopes to place them in public zoos or institutions.

One pigeon here is credited with saving hundreds of lives.

He's a 13-year-old, pearl-eyed speed merchant named G.I. Joe—a dark racing pigeon with white head markings and white flight feathers in his wings. In World War II, Joe flew 20 miles in 20 minutes—probably the fastest military pigeon flight on record—with a message calling off a bombing. It saved a British brigade which had entered the target area ahead of schedule.

Joe's Churchill-loft mates include Yank, 14 years old, a light gray bird with a large beak and orange eyes, and Caesar, 12, dark with checked wings. Yank delivered the news of the fall of Fagga in Tunisia and, another time, flew a Gen. George Patton message 90 miles in 100 minutes. Caesar carried 44 combat messages in North Africa and once flew an important message 300 miles across the Mediterranean to Tunisia.

What makes a pigeon travel, even through withering fire? Some special dedication to duty? No, it's just that he loves home.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
Written for NEA Service

When our ancestors made their purchase by means of barter the flexibility of values and standards of worth were very difficult to establish. After money became available as a means of exchange there came to be a limited range of values for goods and services.

Although monetary values fluctuate with supply and demand, with economic conditions and with other variables, we can still measure relative worth in the material area of life.

Spiritual values are not determined in dollars and cents. However they are measured in personal satisfaction. We feel the blessing of God for our spiritual endeavors. We enjoy peace of mind and soul when we minister to others in the manner of God's teachings. We find ourselves well paid with love for our service to God's other creatures.

First Aid Talk At Rotary by Mrs. Ray Altmire

An interesting talk on the different methods of first aid was presented by Mrs. Ray Altmire, wife of the Harrisburg Civil Defense Director, at the Rotary meeting Monday at the Masonic temple. John Foster was in charge of the program and introduced the guest speaker.

Mrs. Altmire said that more people were killed last year in the American homes than in all three years of the Korean war. She stated that many lives can be saved by the proper first aid methods, administered by persons qualified to do so. If a person is not sure what to do in the event of an accident, it is best not to do anything until the doctor arrives, she said.

Mrs. Altmire listed some things not to do in the event of an accident. She said that a person who is bleeding freely should not be moved, as movement will increase the bleeding. Also, if a person has a back injury, movement might cause permanent paralysis. There are three instances in which action must be taken at once. These are when the person is bleeding freely, has stopped breathing, or has taken poison.

Mrs. Altmire was assisted in actual demonstrations by three Explorer scouts—Eddie Quade, Larry Jahn, and Eric Hansen. These scouts have been trained by Mrs. Altmire in the newest methods of first aid, including back pressure and arm lift artificial respiration, and the ethyl chloride treatment for poisonous snake bites.

Eddie Machen Wins Decision Over Summerlin

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Heavyweight Eddie Machen, an unbeaten but experience-shy newcomer, said today his unanimous decision over Johnny Summerlin proved he was ready for the big-time and serious consideration as a contender for Floyd Patterson's newly-won crown.

"I'll take about two months training to make up for my lack of experience and then I'd like a fight with Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson," the 24-year-old Machen said.

Lack of experience or not, Machen won his 19th straight Wednesday night via a unanimous 10-round decision over Summerlin, who was groggy from combination punches in six of the rounds.

Judges Dick Albino and Richie Fazio agreed Machen won seven rounds and Summerlin three, while Referee Joe Palmer gave it to Machen, 6-4. The United Press card for the TV bout was eight rounds for Machen and one even.

Illinois, Notre Dame and Dayton Impressive in High-Scoring Cage Victories

By United Press
Notre Dame's Irish eyes were smiling again today.

After suffering through the worst football season in the school's history, the far-flung Notre Dame alumni finally found something to cheer about Wednesday night when the Irish basketball team opened its season with a runaway 98-55 victory over St. Joseph (Ind.) College.

It was the second highest total ever run up by a Notre Dame team.

All five members of the Notre Dame starting five broke into double scoring figures against St. Joseph, with Captain John Smyth leading the way with 29 points. The Irish gained a 45-24 lead at halftime and then let the reserves take over for most of the second half.

Fliers Impressive

Dayton and Illinois, both of whom were picked to finish among the nation's top 10 teams in the United Press pre-season ratings, also scored impressive victories Wednesday night.

Dayton won its 200th game under Coach Tommy Blackburn by defeating touring Miami (Fla.), 87-48. Blackburn spent the entire second half experimenting with his reserves after the Flyer regulars opened a 26-point lead at halftime. As a result, sub forward Jack McCarthy emerged as the high scorer with 16 points.

Illinois also built up an early lead in its opening game against Butler and then coasted to a 98-81 triumph. The Illini, who converted 11 of their first 15 field goal attempts, were led by George Bon-salle's 23 points. However, Butler's Ted Guezk wound up as the game's high scorer with 37 points on 14 field goals and nine free throws.

Marquette Edges DePaul

Marquette, led by Jim McCoy and Bob Walczak, battled to a 61-60 overtime squeaker over DePaul. McCoy, who scored 29 points tied the score at 54-all with a basket in the last second of regulation play and Walczak won the game with a field goal just before the end of the five-minute overtime session.

Golf Club Elects New Directors

At the annual meeting of the Egyptian Golf association the by-laws were amended to increase the number of members of the board of directors to nine.

John Crawford Wilson, Dr. C. E. Seten Jr., Robert V. Wilson, John Dameron, and Troy Hart were the new directors elected to serve.

Holdover members of the board are Wilbur X. Barger, Chas. Skaggs, Jake Humphrey and Lowden Pankey.

Jake Humphrey was elected president of the board, Chas. Skaggs, first vice president, and Wilbur X. Barger, secretary-treasurer.

It was announced that the board will soon appoint and announce committees for the coming year's activities.

Cubs Refuse All Offers for Slugger Banks

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — A near-stampede for Ernie Banks was in progress between three National League clubs today but the Chicago Cubs made it plain their slugger shortstop could not be had for love or money.

The Cincinnati Redlegs already have made what they consider "a real solid offer" for Banks and the Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies also were known to be interested in the right-handed, long-ball hitting shortstop.

Cincinnati's offer for Banks consisted of outfielder Wally Post and catcher Smokey Burgess, but under pressure, the Cubs probably could get center fielder Gus Bell instead of Post. Along with Banks, the Redlegs also would insist upon a pitcher, preferably big Bob Rush.

High Regard For Banks

"Sure, a lot of people are talking to us about Banks," admitted Bob Scheffing, the Cubs' new manager, "but he's one boy we're going to hang on to. No one has any higher regard for him than we have."

"The deal would be a good one from Chicago's standpoint," said Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts. "Post and Burgess are good for 60 homers between them. Post 40 and Burgess 20. You figure Banks to hit about 40. So we'd lose 20 homers on the deal and that's why we'd want a pitcher to make up the difference."

The Pirates and Phillies also are interested in acquiring a consistent hitting shortstop like Banks. If Pittsburgh could swing the deal, possibly at the cost of Frank Thomas, it would shift Dick Groat to third base.

Philadelphia still is making overtures to Brooklyn for rookie shortstop Bob Lillis but naturally, Banks would be preferred.

General Manager Roy Hamey of the Phils and Vice President E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi of the Dodgers admitted they are "trying to get together" in a deal but both refused to identify the players involved. The United Press reported Wednesday that Richie Ashburn and Furillo were the central figures under discussion and today Hamey said "we want more than Furillo for Ashburn."

Meanwhile, the Pirates were still trying to do business with the Giants. Like numerous other clubs, the Giants would like Thomas patrolling their outfield and Pittsburgh is after one of the Giants' left-handed pitchers and infielder Foster Castleman.

Russia Clinches Olympics Title with Avalanche of Points; Tops U.S. Team

MELBOURNE — Russia clinched the team championship in the Olympic Games tonight with an avalanche of points in Greco-Roman wrestling and gymnastics which the United States cannot match in the remaining two days of competition.

The U. S. team failed to win a single gold medal today but lodged an official protest against a Russian woman judge whose consistently low scores for American and Hungarian divers enabled Mexico's Joaquin Capilla to win the high dive by .03 point from Gary Tobian of Los Angeles.

With most events completed for the night, the Soviet team was on top with 637 points to 553 1-2 for the United States which has a chance to increase its total only in Friday night's three swimming events.

Russia's team victory on its second try in the Olympics was only the second time the United States had failed to win the unofficial but generally recognized overall title. In 1936, Germany picked up scores of points in minor events to top the United States' 6284 points to 451 1-3. Polo and handball were on the official program that year.

Four years ago, the United States overcame Russia's harvest of points in Greco-Roman wrestling and gymnastics to win the team title. But this time Soviet athletes also were strong in some of the major events. Though outscored in such spectacles as track, rowing, swimming and basketball, the Soviets were in position to nail the championship when their turn came up tonight.

Russians won or shared seven of eight gymnastics championships. They also won five of the eight championships in Greco-Roman wrestling.

In the men's high dive, cheers mingled with boos as Capilla nosed out the favored Tobian. A Russian woman judge repeatedly scored the Americans lower and Capilla higher than did the six other judges.

Later, U. S. Coach Karl Michaels of Dartmouth lodged an official protest.

"The judging was unfair from the word go," Capilla said, though he had benefitted in his bid for the gold medal.

Aussies Crack Record

Australia's crack women's 400-meter freestyle relay whiz kids, anchored by sturdy Lorraine Crapp, cracked their own world and Olympic record by splashing to a three-year victory over an American quartet in 4:17.1 seconds. That broke their own world record of 4:19.7 set last October and the Olympic mark of 4:24.2 set in 1952 by Hungary.

Deacon Davis Injured, Will Not Be With Globe Trotters; Team Here on Dec. 13

"Deacon" Davis, scheduled to appear with the Harlem Globe Trotters in Harrisburg Thursday, Dec. 13, has received an injury and will not be with the team.

This information was received in Harrisburg from Abe Saperstein, owner-coach of the Globe Trotters. The telegram revealed Davis, former Freeport high school and University of Iowa basketball star, would probably be sidelined for a month and had returned to his home in Freeport.

It was not stated who was replacing Davis on the Trotter's roster.

All the other star cagers, plus outstanding accompanying acts, will be in Harrisburg next Thursday, along with the Philadelphia Sphas, touring the country with the famous Negro basketball aggregation.

Acts include Ala Ming, darling of the Orient, who performs sensationally, using the sharp edge of a solid silver sword as a replacement for a tight rope wire.

Her repertoire of stunts on the blade include a handstand, back flip, a full split and a rope jumping series.

Dick Albershardt, national collegiate trampoline champion, is also a member of the brilliant show group. He twice won both the Western Conference and North South trampoline championships while attending Indiana university.

Another member of the floor show is Consuelo, young aerial artist, who presents a program of trapeze and ring routines. She performs on a specially designed portable apparatus.

Ala Baba, discovered in Turkey last summer, is listed as a magician par excellence. He concentrates his act on mixing drinks, from a pitcher of clear water concocting all types of delectable beverages.

Other Friday night games are: Eldorado at Galatia, Equality at Golconda, Cairo at Norris City, McLeansboro at Carmi, Cave-in-Rock at Shawneetown, Ridgway at Rosiclare, Zeigler at Cartersville, Shawnee at Trico, Anna-Jonesboro at Chester, Pinckneyville at Carbondale, Wayne City at Bluford, Waltonville at Sesser, Vienna at Brookport, Royalton at Elkhart, Christopher at Valer, Dahlgren at Enfield, Mound City at Dongola, Sparta at Du Quoin, University School at Hurst-Bush, Metropolis at Albion, Karnak at Joppa and Bridgeport at Salem.

Four South Seven teams will be taking on non-conference opponents Saturday night, with no hoop games on tap. They will be Her-rin at Johnston City, Mt. Vernon entertaining Alton, West Frankfort at Zeigler and Harrisburg host to Carrier Mills.

Other games will be Eldorado at Ridgway, Salem at Olney, Edwardsville at Pinckneyville, Metropolis at Paris, Chester at Murphysboro, Carmi at Granite City, Cahokia at Carlyle, Attucks at Sparta, Anna-Jonesboro at Wood River and Hurst-Bush at Shawnee.

Only 16 of the 2,000 inorganic minerals are classified as gems, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

NAMED QUEEN — Ann Mossberg, 19-year-old coed from Pasadena City College, has been selected to be Queen of the Tournament of Roses and will preside over festivities on New Year's Day. Attended by six Princesses, Miss Mossberg is five feet seven inches tall, and will be the tallest of the group. (NEA Telephoto)

Another crowd-pleasing act is the team of Lee Marx and Billie, husband and wife balancing and juggling team.

High points of the act include skipping rope, juggling and balancing while perching atop a large rubber ball.

The Globe Trotters and accompanying acts are sponsored in Harrisburg by the group of men interested in the night baseball program and all proceeds will go to further improve the baseball field.

Tickets are $2 for reserved seats, $1.50 general admission and 90 cents for students, if purchased in advance.

Hungarian Olympic Team to Seek Political Asylum

MELBOURNE, Australia — A Hungarian official said today two-thirds of the Hungarian Olympics team—perhaps 100 athletes—will seek political asylum in the United States, Australia and other free nations.

Reports that most of the Hungarian team members will refuse to return to their embattled homeland were confirmed by Hungarian Sports Minister Gyula Hegyi, Australian government sources and the athletes themselves.

Hungarian hatred of the Russians burst into an open demonstration today during a water polo match that ended in a free-for-all, with Hungarian blood once more staining Soviet hands.

Australian government sources said the immigration office was flooded with "a number of applications" from Hungarian team members who wish to remain here.

Majors Named Back of Year

NEW YORK — All-America Johnny Majors, Tennessee's pint-sized triple-threat tailback, today was voted the United Press back of the year for the 1956 college football season.

Majors, the dominant factor in Tennessee's surprising perfect-record campaign, was honored in a nationwide poll of 232 sports writers and radio and television broadcasters who voted for the United Press All-America team.

The five-foot-10, 165-pounds tailback attracted 79 votes in the open-ticket balloting to beat out Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma's All-America halfback by 20 votes. Jimmy Brown of Syracuse, another All-America selection, was third with 58 votes.

Despite his comparatively small size in this era of the specialized, hefty college football player, Majors was a standout at rushing, passing and punting. In Coach Bowden Wyatt's "old-fashioned" single wing offense, Johnny had to be versatile if the Volunteers were to click.

Sigma Delta Chi Chapter at SIU Is Approved

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, has approved the establishment of an undergraduate chapter at Southern Illinois University.

The organization also has awarded the Wells Memorial Key, recognizing "professional accomplishments, integrity and leadership," to the new chapter's faculty sponsor, Charles C. Clayton, SIU visiting professor of journalism.

Both actions were taken during the fraternity's annual convention Nov. 28-Dec. 1 at Louisville, Ky.

A past national president of Sigma Delta Chi, Clayton is editor of The Quill, the organization's magazine. With a background of more than 30 years' experience in newspapering, mainly in St. Louis, Clayton joined the journalism department staff at Southern last December. He is currently teaching the first extension course for college credit ever offered at Menard State Penitentiary.

Clayton is author of a textbook, "Newspaper Reporting Today," and is a recipient of a distinguished service medal awarded by the Missouri School of Journalism.

Southern's Sigma Delta Chi chapter will replace the men's journalism association known as Southern Press Club.

As usual, they were not on sale to the general public. You are entitled to buy them only if you are invited.

The Jan. 21 ball will be held at three hotels and the National Guard Armory.

The four sites chosen for the "co-equal" balls can accommodate 14,600 celebrants. The planners hope to hold actual attendance to that figure. But they were making no guarantees.

There were two ball sites in 1952—the Armory and McDonough gym at Georgetown University—with a total capacity of about 14,500. Estimated attendance was far above that figure.

The four most "honored guests" at the balls will be President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon. They will visit all four affairs.

Plan New Aid for Baghdad Nations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration plans to ask Congress for funds next year to pump new military aid into Baghdad Pact nations on Russia's southwest flank, officials said today.

The action will be a further step to bolster these nations—Turkey, Pakistan, Iraq and Iran—and to try to bring stability to the Middle East. The United States just last Thursday took the unusual step of turning would-be aggressors that any threat on Baghdad Pact members would be viewed "with the utmost gravity" by this country even though it is not a member of the pact.
